Lignobiotech II Symposium

14th Sun. → 17th Wed. Oct. 2012

Aims and Scope

The evolution from ICBPPI to Lignobiotech One was based on the necessity to share the capitalized knowledge on biotechnologies acquired in pulp and paper sector with the community working in the more general field of biomass transformation. The second edition of Lignobiotech will encompass rapidly growing research activities in all biotechnology and related sciences of lignocellulosic biomass for fuels, chemicals and materials.

Topics in Lignobiotech Two include:

- Fundamentals of lignocellulosic transformation and enzymes
- Microbial genomics and biotechnology
- Fundamental studies of lignocellulosic biofuels and biorefinery
- Fundamentals for lignocellulose formation
- Metabolic engineering of lignocellulose biosynthesis
- Superstructure of lignocelluloses
- Functional materials and new product design
- Bioprocess engineering and industrial applications
- Economy, logistics, societal and environmental issues
